Service & Training

KOSO HAMMEL DAHL control valve products are sold through a network of qualified technical sales representatives throughout the world. These sales representatives and their support staff provide immediate local support to our customer base, including the sale of parts and the servicing of products. In many cases repairs and modifications to control valve assemblies can be handled locally by the sales representatives.

KOSO HAMMEL DAHL also maintains service centers and facilities throughout the world. These service centers are staffed with factory trained and certified personnel. All repairs are made using original equipment parts from KOSO HAMMEL DAHL and every repaired unit is tested, retagged, and assigned a new valve warranty.

For high profile repairs, highly specialized equipment or critical emergency repairs KOSO HAMMEL DAHL can provide highly qualified technicians direct from the factory in New England.

Product and service training is also available at either our factory or your site. Please contact our factory for additional information on availability and costs.
